

DLA Piper, one of the UK's largest law firms, has once more chosen KI's 700 Series lateral filing and storage system for their prestigious new Leeds offices.

"We wanted the best building in Leeds, the best fit out and the best furniture. Without question, our ambition is to be recognised as the top law firm in Leeds. We have moved into the city's flagship building at Princes Exchange, seeing the location as an essential tool. The new offices are important for attracting clients, enhancing our performance, and to maintain staff morale at its high level."

- Simon Smith, Facilities Manager

Designed by architects Swanke Hayden Connell, the new space allows for a high level of churn within an environment that attracts the right calibre of staff.

After a comprehensive document management audit carried out by KI dealer EKO, DLA Piper changed the way it filed information in several departments.

Previously, particularly in the Business Support & Restructuring and Trademark departments, documents were filed individually. With the new KI system a central filing system – combining hanging files and lever arch files – was introduced, saving considerable valuable space.

According to Simon Smith, "the audit helped massively – it would have taken us a lot longer to carry out ourselves. What's more the schedule was provided to the architects, allowing them to produce scale drawings, and the basis for the order. KI and EKO had great product knowledge and were very committed and willing."

The flexibility of the KI solutions is demonstrated in several ways. The metallic finish matches the frame of the desk system, as does the quarter cut maple veneer suited on filing and workstation tops. Discreet cable management voids for team printers at the rear of KI units also enhance the clean lines of the interior scheme.

"The KI system performs well and we have no service issues. In fact, we're so impressed we are planning to set up a national contract so that we can use KI in all our offices."
