

Diageo, the world's leading premium drinks company, has chosen KI to supply both filing and seating solutions for its new London headquarters. Specified by leading architectural practice Aukett, KI has made a major contribution to the prestigious purpose built space. The project is a powerful illustration of the breadth of the KI product portfolio as KI has supplied 300 classic Perry chairs in addition to over eight hundred units from the 700 Series storage and filing system.

Property development director David Hoy explains why Diageo chose the best. 'This building is an extension of our approach to human resources – attracting the best people – while positioning our brand values at the same time. As far as I'm concerned I want nobody to leave Diageo because of poor working conditions.

The specification and standard at Diageo represents the crème de la crème of contract interior furnishing. The Perry chair, favoured for its unique tilt action and comfort was specifically chosen for its use in a major multipurpose space frequently used for brand presentations to major buyers and shareholders. KI 700 Series storage and filing system was specified throughout to modernise Diageo's approach to information and communication. Needless to say, Aukett took advantage of KI's straightforward colour matching programme.
