

Railtrack

Railtrack's values of safety, teamwork and efficiency are reflected in KI's 700 Series lateral filing and storage system, specified by the company for its new London headquarters.

Railtrack needed a quality solution which matched the building's design ethos, and, after an exhaustive competitive analysis and tender, selected KI to provide filing for over 800 staff.

Group Facilities Manager, Colin Newton, explains, 'We wanted a filing and storage system which supported the different needs of each department. Hanging files, box files and a widevariety of different media are all stored in a flexible system.' The KI system allows the right sight lines in the open plan offices, and may be simply re-figured when project teams are formed.

KI's interlocking drawers were an important aspect of the project. Primary access routes are bordered by filing units, making KI's 700 Series system preferable to cupboards and tambour storage.

BDG McColl Workplace worked with Railtrack as interior designers and project coordinators to create a flexible and intelligent working environment. Making use of KI's unrivalled colour programme, BDG specified contrasting finishes on the KI units to aid differentiation between floors and to complement the bright and attractive interior scheme.
