

Ventura

Customer service outsourcing company Ventura, part of the Next Group, has selected KI 700 Series lateral filing and storage system for their major new customer service operation in the Dearne Valley, South Yorkshire. Ventura Project Manager Fiona Skilbeck comments: 'We looked at a number of different storage options and concluded that the KI system meets our needs. It is flexible because we can store different types of media within a standard format.'

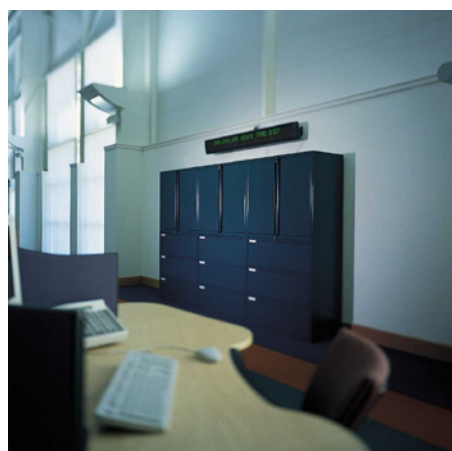

The project team worked closely with KI and Portfolio Creative Interiors to specify a lateral filing system that holds documents with no wasted space and provides very rapid retrieval. KI's modular system allows the lateral drawer units to combine with an upper cupboard section correctly sized to manage lever arch files and stationery.

Ventura recognised the importance of colour within the interior design scheme and made use of KI's unsurpassed colour matching programme to the full. The Ventura team chose specific finishes in order to create colour accents and team demarcation points.

The durability of the KI system was also an important factor in the selection process. As Fiona Skilbeck remarks: 'The KI units appear stronger than other comparable products.'
